ESTIMATE 10,000 MARCHERS IN LINE

First Time That America Has Been Served Ultimatum By U. S. Citizenry

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Row on row of grim, mute and marching men left today a deep, indelible impression on a nation already beset with a host of difficulties.

For the first time America had an ultimatum from the rank and file of citizenry—from the men who make the bolle, build the bridges, run the factories and raise the families; the men who fought and won the war.

Orderly Demonstration
They gathered, nearly ten thousand strong, and in a parade striking in its orderliness and determination told those who cared to watch that they were here to collect the soldiers' bonus—and were ready to stay until 1945.

They swung silently through the capital at sundown. With faces hard set, they announced to the world at large that as they saw it, their government owed them money. They were the same men who 15 years ago climbed over parapets into open country singing with leaden death. And some of them carried evidence of those earlier campaigns.

Many Are Crippled
There was one fellow who wore only half a face. He left the other half in France. He was singing when he walked into Washington four days ago. He was humming some wild tune in the parade. He said he was certain he and his "bud-

PA NEW OBSERVES

Temperatures certainly go from the sublime to the ridiculous. Two nights ago, it was so hot one could scarcely sleep in comfort, while last evening, near freezing temperatures prevailed, the mercury dropping to 36.

The unusually dry condition of vegetation at the present time is evidenced by the fact that firemen have received several calls during the past few days to extinguish grass fires. Gardeners report that some plants which they have set out recently have been burned up by the hot sun and lack of water.

It was a little chilly this morning, and in talking with a recent at Lakewood Pa. News was told that some places in that district had a heavy frost this morning. No damage was done to the vegetation.

Every morning for the past week, Young Pa. News has met a man on the run. He always encounters this mysterious person at about the same place. It may be that the man uses this means of travel as his morning exercises and also as a method of getting to work on time.

Crowds congregating evenings and especially on Saturday evenings on the East Washington street bridge are proving very annoying to the public in general and especially to women, who find it necessary to walk past these crowds.

There are about 600 New Castle people who are wearing little lavender ribbons on their lapels. The ribbons are reminders of the eighty-fifth anniversary of the Croton M. E. church.

Daily Weather Report

U. S. weather statistics for the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning follows:

River stage, 44 feet.

Statistics for the same date a year ago follow:
Maximum temperature, 66.
Minimum temperature, 52.

Strike Back At Defector From Ranks Of Prohibitionists

PROPAGANDA IS BLAMED FOR ACT

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—Prohibition advocates, recovering from the staggering blow dealt by the defection of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., struck back today.

Bishop Ernest G. Richardson, national president of the Anti-Saloon League and head of the Methodist church in the Philadelphia area, accuse Rockefeller of falling victim to "the common errors of wet propaganda."

In a statement that served the double purpose of a reply to and a commentary on the Rockefeller call for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, Bishop Richardson said:
"I am sorry that one who occupies so conspicuous a place and who has proved himself a friend of

(International News Service)
DEANS, N. J., June 8.—More than 50 men, women and children today suffered from more or less serious injuries received when an Atlantic City passenger train bound for New York crashed with terrific force into a derailed freight train.

The locomotive of the express with four coaches and parlor cars plunged down an 8 foot embankment, landing in a cluster of trees at the foot of the embankment. Hysterical screams of the injured and panic-stricken occupants of the overturned cars were heard over a wide area.

An immediate call for first aid brought ambulances quickly from Trenton, Princeton and New Brunswick and emergency hospital were established on the railroad tracks.

Probably the most seriously injured were Charles H. E. W. C. T. U. Says Repeal Of 18th Amendment Would Be Nothing But "Murderous"

(International News Service)
EVANSTON, Ill., June 8.—Repeal of the eighteenth amendment would be "murderous," the national office of the W. C. T. U., declared in a statement sent today to dry leaders in every state.

The statement, issued as a reply to the anti-Prohibition declaration of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., said in part:
"To repeal the eighteenth amendment would be murderous in that it would restore the old high death rate from alcoholic causes; it would be cowardly in that it would surrender to the liquor interests, which, regardless of the protests of wet leaders, are bent on complete liberalization of liquor laws around the world."
"It would not only be an un-American surrender to low ideals but would be national stupidity."

This fellow Rockefeller jumped right out of the Sunday School room into the hearts of his countrymen with the most plain, straightforward and lucid statement that's been issued, not only on prohibition, but that's been said on any subject since the panic. Even the rabid drays will applaud his honesty and frankness.

Meet To Oppose Special Session At Harrisburg

Rural Legislators To Formulate Program This Afternoon

RURAL SECTIONS WILL HAVE SAY

Claim Larger Communities Have Been Reckless In Prosperous Times

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, June 8.—Sponsored by two house members openly opposed to a second special legislative session, a meeting of state assemblymen from the rural districts was to be held here this afternoon to draft views on the proposal to convene the Legislature a second time to provide aid for the jobless.

Assemblyman George N. Wade, Cumberland, and A. L. Sheffer, Mifflin, called the meeting and invited 75 legislators. In their letter they charged that rural communities who have handled public funds with care should not be made to suffer for the recklessness of the larger communities in times of prosperity. Gov. Gifford Pinchot, in a letter to Rep. Paul B. Rice, Dauphin, yesterday took the Talbot-Turner house bloc to task. He thanked Rice for sending him a copy of the statement with a small group of assemblymen made after their meeting Monday.

The Governor declared that he has considered the Talbot Act as far as political purposes are concerned.

Apartment Hotel Fire May Have Been Of Incendiary Origin

NINE PERSONS STILL MISSING

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, O., June 8.—Possibility that the explosion and fire which destroyed the Ellington apartment hotel in downtown Cleveland early yesterday may have been incendiary in origin, loomed today as searchers extricated a fifth body from the ruins of the demolished structure.

The incendiary theory was investigated while firemen and police continued to dig into the tangled debris for the bodies of other possible victims. Nine persons, who were among the 150 in the hotel at the time of the disaster were still missing this morning, and it was feared their lives may have been lost, bringing the death toll of the holocaust to 14.

Davis And Reed Vote For Revenue Bill In Senate

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent Of The New Castle News
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8.—Both Senator David Reed and James J. Davis voted to pass the compromise revenue bill drafted by the Senate and House conferees this week when the measure was approved by a 47 to 35 ballot.

Reed and Davis also stood by Vice President Curtis' in his rule that the conferees' bill was in order from a parliamentary viewpoint. Senator Howell, Republican of Nebraska, made a point of order against the measure upon the ground that the conferees had written new legislation when they prescribed a tax on the consumers of electricity.

As the bill passed the Senate, it imposed a tax on power companies selling electricity. The conferees changed this to a levy on the consumers of electric power, and Howell made a point of order against this action, contending it was beyond the jurisdiction of the conferees to make such an alteration.

Curtis over-ruled the point of order and the Senate sustained him by a 42 to 33 vote. Both Reed and Davis voted to sustain the decision.

Mrs. Sidell and her five children, asleep as the explosion occurred, were thrown to the floor by the impact of the blast but escaped injury.

Belief was expressed by State police from Butler that at least 12 sticks of dynamite were thrown at the house by occupants in a passing car.

No motive for the blast could be determined by Mrs. Sidell who told police she has no known enemies and has not received threatening letters.

Ruth Bryan Owen Trails In Early Election Returns

Former Gov. John W. Martin held a scant lead for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination with the majority of ballots still uncounted.

Wagner Relief Measure Now Before Senate

Reported To Senate By Committee—Seeks To Aid Employment

PUBLIC WORKS ARE INCLUDED

Would Grant Funds To Reconstruction Body For Relief Moves

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 8.—The $2,000,000,000 Wagner unemployment relief bill was favorably reported today by the senate banking and currency committee.

The bill would turn $1,500,000,000 over to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for unemployment relief through construction programs. It carried authority for a $500,000,000 bond issue, the proceeds to be used in construction of such public works as post offices and post roads. The vote in favor of the bill was 7 to 4.

The committee yesterday took one section of the bill, providing a $300,000,000 for loans to states to relieve suffering and reported it as a separate bill. The remaining funds, aside from the bond issue would be used to finance loans on self liquidating projects.

Prior to reporting the bill, the committee voted 9 to 6 against permitting loans to "private competitive industries." The elimination of this authority was certain to provoke a battle in the senate since President Hoover specifically recommended loans to private industry as long as the projects were self liquidated and the government was protected.

Bonus Marchers Must Maintain Army At Capital

Veterans Will Have To Look Out For Themselves From Now On

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 8.—All that remained of the order of district commissioners that the bonus army encamped in the capital must evacuate the city after its parade demonstration was carried out today.

The bonus army took over from police the job of managing themselves. There will be no forcible eviction of the uninvited guests.

Superintendent of Police Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glasford said his force would simply turn all the operating mechanism of the marchers over to their leaders and that they would have to shift for themselves from now on.

Enough food to care for the nearly ten thousand men encamped here today was supplied by the police early this morning, and shortly before noon remaining supplies were taken over by a newly set up "commissionary division" of the marchers.

Officials of the concern said the action was taken to conserve cash.

I cannot sing the old songs, the old time poem went, the idea was the singer was too old and worn and bent, but I am neither, least not yet, to sing the old songs through, the trouble is with me my friend, I cannot sing the new. I hear them on the radio and think the words I know, but all I can remember is that ro-de-o-do-do. The crooner whines his lovely songs, but me I cannot get, the music as he hums along, no words, as well as yet. I cannot sing the old songs, which is a nasty fix, but I can't sing the new ones and the weather's eighties six.

MORE MARCHERS ARE NEARING CITY

Woman Leading Bonus Marchers

New Delegation Is Headed Toward City From Ohio This Afternoon

PART OF YESTERDAY'S SQUAD STILL HERE

Plans Being Made To Provide Trucks To Transport Them On

At two o'clock this afternoon New Castle still had the remnants of the Bonus Marchers who were here Tuesday, 345 additional marchers from the west coast were on their way here from Lovellville, and an effort was being made to secure trucks to get the marchers out of Lawrence county and on their way towards Washington.

Serious discussion broke out among the 400 marchers who left New Castle Tuesday afternoon for New Castle Junction. It was the plan of C. B. Cowan, in charge of the group, to commandeer the fast freight trains of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Hearing of the plan, B. & O. officials changed their crews and engines at Lovellville and shot their trains through the Junction at express train speed. Defeated in their plan of commandeering the freight, the marchers settled down on the hillside along the tracks waiting for something to turn up.

Cleveland Group Leaves.

About midnight it was proposed to gang the Capital Limited, but 85 special railroad detectives deployed along the right of way changed that plan. At five thirty this morning the Cleveland men of the delegation hopped a P. & L. E. freight train for Pittsburgh, leaving John Pace of Detroit and 120 Michigan men on the hillside. Early today the men reorganized their depleted companies, elected Pace as Field Marshal and he then went to Mayor Mayne who promised to get trucks enough to get the men out by tonight.

Woman Heads Group.

Hardly had the interview with Pace finished when "Joan of Arc" of the west, her husband William Perrotta and Joseph Gerard came in as the advance delegation of the group from San Francisco and Oakland, Cal. Their marchers are encamped near Lovellville and were to start for New Castle this afternoon. "They will be permitted to park on the Central Fire Station lot, Mayor Mayne has arranged for drinking water, and an effort is being made to get trucks enough to get the marchers into Beaver Falls. The sixty men from Rockford, Ill., who encamped in Cascade Park Tuesday afternoon were taken to Butler by a truck of Fisher Brothers at nine fifteen Tuesday night.

This may not be the last group yet. Advice from Akron are that still another group is headed this way. The plan of the Ohio cities seems to be to move the marchers on as fast as possible by landing them into the lap of Pennsylvania. Being near the state line New Castle is getting the full benefit of this process.

BIG BONUS ARMY STAGES PARADE IN WASHINGTON

dies" would get what they were after.

Police said approximately a hundred thousand watched the "big push" of the World War veterans. There was spasmodic, infrequent cheering along the line of march. The audience was singularly free of the dignitaries who gather to watch Washington parades.

Successful Parade

The veterans themselves counted their parade the first successful move in a campaign designed to win the bonus.

Whatever the effectiveness of the march, it was conceded a complete success as a demonstration alone. The veterans had promised complete order. Their ranks moved so silently the chug-chug of idling police motorcycles cut through the air like drum-beats. They promised there would be no display of banners other than patriotic ones and those demanding payment of the bonus. Their ranks bristled with American flags, and were topped by banners bearing only "we want the bonus" and similar legends. Rumored trouble from Communist sources failed to materialize.

Are Back In Camps

When it was all over the veterans filed back into the four camps where they are concentrated and settled to rest. Today they remained in those camps, except for a picked group which assailed congressional offices, seeking votes in favor of payment of the bonus. Rank and file today has been ordered to "stay out of town" while a Communist group which has secured a parade permit was expected to march.

"His statement bears evidence of his having fallen into some of the common errors that the wet propaganda has produced."

He denied the Rockefeller assertions that liquor selling establishments have increased two and three fold since the advent of prohibition. He added:

"It simply is not true that drinking has increased."

Rockefeller's right-about-face was deplored by the Rev. Dr. John Watchorn, former chairman of the Philadelphia Methodist Episcopal Conference Board of Temperance.

This clergyman summed up his reaction to the repeal declaration with a succinct question. He asked:

"Are the great American people about to openly acknowledge that their God is their belly?"

Three Former Pastors Bring Greetings To Congregation Last Evening

OLDEST MEMBERS ARE GIVEN HONOR

Last evening's service at the Croton M. E. Church was observed as "Old Timers" night in connection with the 85th anniversary of the church which is being held this week.

Three former pastors of the congregation, Rev. Emerson Jones of Bemis Point, N. Y.; Rev. D. R. Dunn of Weston, W. Va., and Rev. Charles Campbell, of Fredonia, N. Y., were present and renewed acquaintances with their former parishioners, each bringing a message of congratulation and encouragement.

There were many former members of the congregation in attendance, many of whom had formerly held high office in the church and Sunday school, the church auditorium being filled to capacity for the service.

Frank F. Miller, church treasurer, and former superintendent of the Sunday school presided and addresses of welcome were given by Miss Eve B. Nicklin, Deaconess; E. J. Switzer, superintendent of the Sunday School; and the pastor, Rev. Clifford S. Joshua.

Dunn First Speaker

Rev. Dunn who left New Castle six years ago, after spending six years as pastor of the church was given a big ovation when he was introduced, as were his wife and two daughters, Bertha and Margaret who were also present. Rev. Dunn recalled the happy years he had spent serving the Croton congregation, and stated that it was the pleasantest time he has yet enjoyed during the years of his ministry.

Rev. Emerson Jones was the last speaker and urged the congregation to carry on as faithfully as they have in the past, so that Croton church would continue to stand out in the work of The Lord in New Castle.

WORLD PARLEY TO SPUR TRADE

ANNOUNCEMENT by the state department that the United States government had agreed to participate in a world economic conference to stabilize commodity prices is considered as one of the most important moves by the government in the interest of international affairs since the Hoover moratorium of last June.

The conference will be called by the British government, if the present diplomatic negotiations are successful in being carried out. This conference will have nothing to do with reparations, war debts or disarmament, or an enlargement of the Lausanne conference. It will be only for the purpose of securing methods for the stabilizing of commodity prices with the idea that more amicable trade relations may be established between nations for the benefit of all.

This seems to be a wise, sound business proposition for the encouragement of international trade.

ARE WOMEN HAPPIER THAN MEN?

To attempt to determine whether man or woman is the happier is a big undertaking. But Dr. Rowina Ripin, instructor in psychology at Long Island University, delved into the mass of generalities involved in such an undertaking and emerged with the opinion that the women have the best of it when it comes to happiness.

Dr. Ripin held an "emotional recording" to settle the question. Forty-one students started in the experiment. Twenty-three carried it to a conclusion.

And the result was, as the doctor told members of the Association of Consulting Psychologists, that "the women had a higher 'happiness quotient' than the men, 68 per cent of their emotions being pleasant ones, as compared to 64.7 for the male subjects. The average 'happiness quotient' for the group was found to be 65 per cent."

MULTIPLYING UGLINESS

Back in the days when everything was made by hand, when a craftsman worked a new design into every article he produced, a mistake in judgment or an error in taste was of little importance. A crude and unsightly product could offend but few. But when from a single design thousands and even hundreds of thousands of identical objects are to be brought forth, the culture and artistic sense of whole nations may be affected.

A thing of beauty is a joy forever and if beautiful things can be created by the thousands or by the million the result will be mass production of joy. But what if the objects turned out by high-speed processes happen to be ugly. There is an equal chance of that.

Richard F. Bach, an associate of the department of decorative arts of the Metropolitan Museum of Arts in New York, has called attention to the possible evil effects of multiplication of bad designs. He said the advent of the power-driven machine has changed the entire problem of decorative arts.

This is a truth that manufacturers ought to ponder.

The most ordinary utensils are the better for possessing qualities of pleasing design. In our desire to produce plentifully and cheaply too often we have forgotten this truth which was well known to the ancients. And our modern machinery with its marvelous capacity for reproducing objects from a single design may make us either a people distinguished for good taste or devoid of esthetic appreciation.

ACCELERATING THE GROWTH OF TREES

From California comes reports of experiments to discover how trees may be made to grow more rapidly. Hybridization, practiced since 1915, is now beginning to show encouraging results. By proper selection it is believed that superior types of timber sixteen inches in diameter and seventy or eighty feet tall can be produced in twenty-five years. The yellow pollen of the pines may turn the tricks, so that Dame Nature will bring the trees to maturity in half the period now required.

The significance of such an achievement would be instantly reflected in reforestation. At present the harvest is too long delayed to interest the individual landholder, who must have his profits within a single generation. As a result forestry has been left to social impulse, to federal, state and local conservation movements. But if the private owner could realize on the investment within his own lifetime, the whole problem would be changed. The carrying costs would be correspondingly reduced and cheaper lumber should be a possibility. The wood industry might be revolutionized if trees could be brought to their maximum earning capacity at an earlier age than the average human plant reaches the same status.

Want to Learn to Write?
Don't Clip That Coupon
Look at Things and People

By MARSHALL MASLIN

If I cut a coupon from an enticing advertisement that just came to me a marvelous book soon will be mine.

It will show me how to become a great writer, a perfect user of nouns, verbs, adjectives and adverbs. All the words are in that book, and my only task will be to pick them out and put them together in the proper order. Cicero didn't have such a book. Neither did Shakespeare. Nor John Keats. Nor Mark Twain. But think how much better writers they would have been if they'd had it.... And I can have it if I wish.

If I see a pretty lady and wish to describe her exactly as she is, I'll merely turn to the proper passage and find scores of proper words. Words like comely and elegant and enchanting and lissom and superlative and adorable and stunning and dazzling and lithesome and refined and seraphic and refulgent and glamorous and so on and so on.

If I wish I may have that book, and become a marvelous, accurate, fascinating, exciting, powerful, subtle, astounding, clever, amazing, moving, insinuating, stupendous writer in less than a month.

But I don't "wish".... I'd rather not have the book. Not, I hope, because I'm arrogant and self-satisfied about writing. But rather, I hope, because I have too much respect for this business of putting words together to recreate in fumbling, imperfect ways the stuff of life. I don't believe that's the way to write. I do believe that you learn to write by seeing and knowing. By looking at a thing—a flower, a puppy, a rock, a human being—until you know it so well that its description comes to you as naturally as water flows over a rock.

It's a troubling business, writing, and it's never-ending. Looking up adjectives is the cheap and easy way. Looking up TRUTH is the dear and difficult way. You can't find the true and the beautiful in a book of dead words; you find them only in the good brown earth and in living, suffering, laughing creatures.

If a man were wise enough, genius enough, he could write a thousand words and not use a single adjective. But those thousand words would call up in the heart of the reader every perfect adjective in the world.

Lord help me! I will not buy that book. For, if I did, I'd be traveling the long, wrong way to where I want to go.

YOUR OFFICE DISPOSITION

Often you feel irritable and displeased when you reach your business office or your job, in the morning.

If you are in a position of authority, it is likely that you make little effort to control your ill humor.

Those under you must stand for your idiosyncrasies and are probably subjected to many words of censure or complaint which they don't deserve.

If your bad humor came as a result of the actions of one to whom you dared not express your feelings, because you had no right, very likely you are unfair toward those who must stand your criticism.

Strange, isn't it, that human beings are often like that.

They try to vent upon others what they have had to take themselves.

Can't you be bigger in spirit than that?

If you had a quarrel at home why bring it along with you?

Shake it off on your way to work. You are not meeting those to blame for your sour mood, when you leave the cause at your home or somewhere enroute to your place of business.

You deliberately set every hand against you when you make others suffer for something which they are not to blame.

THE GAIN

When life was bright and cheerful he went singing on his way.

He scarcely knew his neighbors or what sort of folks were they.

But he woke one dismal morning to find all his money gone.

And he found that fate and fortune were not safe to lean upon.

The other day I met him, and he said: "It's very queer.

But the fact is I am happier than I've been for many a year.

I've discovered friendly people living just across the street.

I've discovered buds and blossoms and the grass beneath my feet.

"Since the bank account has dwindled I've discovered at my door a variety of blessings which I'd never known before.

I've discovered chess and checkers are not games which children play.

But are glorious entertainment when at home you choose to stay.

"Oh, we're richer now in spirit than we ever thought we'd be.

There's a bond of true devotion binding all the family.

We have gained in faith and wisdom and in fellowship with flowers.

And whatever loss may follow, these shall evermore be ours."

Identical Action By Parties On Liquor Called Possibility

Removal Of Question From National Campaign Viewed Difficult Undertaking But Favorable To Alignment On Other Issues

Proposals to induce both political conventions to adopt identical planks favoring submission of prohibition to State conventions are received with some skepticism. The idea of removing the liquor question from the national campaign is looked upon as worth while, if it can be achieved. The press recognizes that there is a strong demand from sections of both parties for some form of resubmission, while at the same time return of the saloon is energetically opposed.

"If the Democrats and Republicans should adopt identical damp, or even wet planks," says the CHATTANOOGA TIMES (Dem.), "the dries would be in position to say and no doubt would say, that the vote did not mean anything." The Times feels that it would "only prolong the deplorable farce," and that paper concludes: "In the meantime, other prominent citizens will be finding their voices, just as General Pershing found his in Paris the other day, when he described prohibition as a source of racketeering." The KANSAS CITY TIMES (Ind.) feels that "the immediate question is how the two parties will deal with the issue in convention, and thus hand it on for a possible decision by the voters in November." Reviewing the events of recent months, The Times suggests: "For what it may be worth for later political purposes this year, the members of Congress now are on record as to their attitude. As the votes have been lined up, practically no issues can be made on the degree of wetness or dryness on party as opposed to the other. In the votes taken in the Senate and House combined, the parties were almost equally divided. More could be made of the relative showing of wet and dry strength by sections of the country."

"The Republican convention" advises the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE (Rep.), "should adopt a plank pledging the party, in unequivocal language, to give the voters at the earliest possible moment an opportunity to vote for or against the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, through the submission of a referendum to State conventions. No other proposal is as fair to dries and wets alike. No other plank will satisfy the aroused opinion of the Nation. Followed by the adoption of a similar plank by the Democrats, the issue would be out of politics for the campaign."

"It is certain," declares the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS (Ind.), "that the platform makers of the parties would be most unwise, should they permit themselves to be guided by the views of the extremists on either side." The Daily News holds that "the rapidly growing sentiment that the illicit liquor traffic must go, in all its demoralizing and destructive forms, dovetails into the even stronger and more widespread sentiment that the old abuses of licensed selling must not return." The Chicago paper concludes: "The character and scope of regulation are not a matter which properly can be left by the national convention to a political party. The details would have been worked out with infinite care by Congress in co-operation with the best minds of the country. The important duty of the national conventions is to pledge the parties and their respective candidates unqualifiedly to work for the submission to State conventions of a substitute amendment of the Eighteenth Amendment or suitable changes in the latter. It is not in the province of the conventions to go further. In simple justice they should go as far as that. Advocates of prohibition as well as its opponents should accept the program here outlined as both expedient and eminently fair."

"There is little doubt" in the opinion of the CHARLESTON (W. VA.) DAILY MAIL (Ind. Rep.), "that President Hoover recognizes the evils of the present system, and is convinced that a change eventually must be made." The BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD declares charges that "Mr. Hoover has been conferring with political advisers with reference to the framing of a statement that will be wet enough to satisfy bucking Republicans in the East and dry enough not to estrange the embattled dries of the country."

The OSHKOSH DAILY NORTHWESTERN (Rep.) doubts the success of the plan to induce both parties to adopt identical platform declarations, and concludes: "Neither party can afford to evade or straddle the question, nor will anything be gained by attempting any sort of innocuous compromise intended to quiet both wets and dries."

Describing the bipartisan idea as "a distinct innovation," the COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL (Ind. Rep.) is convinced that "the entire country would be happy to have it accomplished," and that "it is entirely within the range of possibility." The State Journal concludes: "It is up to the Republicans, of course, to act first because their convention comes first. It is a foregone conclusion that the G. O. P. platform will be at least moist; to do less than that would be hazardous from a campaign viewpoint in the big, populous wet states. If the Republicans should turn moist, as for instance, by declaring for a national referendum on the subject, it would be sound, patriotic and a discussion of all-important economic issues."

"The prohibition question is not a party issue," according to the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN (Ind. Rep.), "it divides parties, friends, homes; it confuses election of candidates for office where many other and more important issues are at stake and prevents a declaration of public opinion on these other issues. The confusion of national election ought not to be tangled up and generally upset by the introduction of any prohibition issue. Agreement between the parties in this matter ought not to be impossible, even though the suggestion is surprising and no one seems to have much hope of its achievement. But neither party wants to take a definite stand on the issue. Neither party convention is likely to do so."

"For men of sense," asserts the BALTIMORE SUN (Ind. Dem.), "the idea of two supposedly divergent parties loading themselves up with identical pronouncements on one of the most controversial issues of the day will seem a counsel of futility. If it is proper for the Democrats and Republicans to get together on an important issue of this character, why is it not equally appropriate for them to get together on taxes on the tariff, on emergency relief, on foreign policy and on every other issue that may conceivably figure in the approaching campaign? If partisan discussion of one great issue is bad, why is partisan discussion of every other great issue not equally bad? What are parties for if they are to dodge their patent responsibilities on public questions by relegating them to the background of public discussion? How can public men expect the Government to face the prohibition issue if the parties which presumably aspire to control the Government refuse to perform the same distasteful task?"

Would Pick Dawes As Campaign Chief For Hoover In Fall

General Charles G. Dawes, Being Importuned To Take Over Campaign Reins

Former Vice-President Is Recognized Money Raiser And Would Make Good Chair-

(International News Service)
(Copyright, 1932, by International News Service)
CHICAGO, June 8.—Gen. Charles G. Dawes, who Monday resigned the presidency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is being importuned to accept the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee and conduct the campaign for the re-election of President Hoover, International News Service learned today.

Dawes is understood to be reluctant to take the post because of a desire to return to his private banking business interest in Chicago, but the White House is bringing persistent pressure upon him to take over the reins, and he has not yet returned a definite answer.

Are Shopping Around
Republican leaders, President Hoover among them, have been engaged in a still hunt for weeks for what has been described as a "new Mark Hanna" to take the helm of the Republican machine in 1932.

They have combed the Middle West for someone who could measure up to such a pattern, but without much success. Incidentally, Dawes was a lieutenant of Hanna in the McKinley campaign.

Unsuccessful in other quarters, the President and his advisors have finally turned to Dawes, according to reports in most authoritative circles here. As a money raiser, Dawes is considered ideally fitted for the post. And money raising is to be no small part of a new chairman's job, also, the volatile General is popular both in business and agricultural circles in the Middle West, where most of the Republican disaffection lies.
Dawes gave as his reasons for resigning the ambassadorship to Great Britain and the presidency of the Finance Corporation his desire to look after his own private affairs, long neglected because of his government service. It has been impressed upon him, however, that he could devote several months to his personal affairs and still manage the campaign, as the rail campaign does not get under way until after the speeches of acceptance in mid-August.

Local Man Hurt In Auto Collision

Robert W. Taylor, of Moody avenue, who was injured in an automobile crash near Imperial, Pa., Monday evening, will be under observation in the Jameson Memorial hospital for a few days it is believed. Mr. Taylor is apparently not seriously hurt but complications may arise. X-ray pictures taken Tuesday showed there to be no broken bones.
Mr. Taylor, whose business carries him from Mansfield to Pittsburgh regularly, was driving his car when it collided with another machine going in the opposite direction.

Shabuoth Festival At Temple Israel

Observation Of The Feast Of Weeks Will Be Held Thursday Evening In Temple

Temple Israel, Highland and Moody avenues, will observe the Festival of Shabuoth (Feast of Weeks) with a special service on Thursday evening, June 9, at 8 p. m. Daylight Saving Time. Rabbi Avery Jonah Grossfield officiating. The topic of the sermon will be: "The Ten Commandments—Are They Still Valid?" The choir will render the Festival music in the traditional tunes. The Shabuoth morning service will take place Friday at 10:30 a. m.

Shabuoth—The Feast Of Weeks
Shabuoth, the Feast of Weeks, is to be observed by Jews on the evening of Thursday, June 9th, and on the day following. The festival is observed for two days by Orthodox Jews.

Shabuoth is sometimes called Pentecost, and sometimes the "Feast of (early) Harvest." It is also the time of the giving-of-the-Law. These names represent the varied events in Jewish history which have grown up around this festival. It is called Pentecost because it occurs fifty days after the beginning of the Passover holiday, or seven "weeks" after the counting of the Omer, which begins with the second day of Passover. All this is linked up with the early agricultural significance of Shabuoth, for at this season the first ripe fruits of the wheat harvest were brought to the Temple in Jerusalem.

Shabuoth is one of the three occasions in the Jewish religious calendar known as "Pilgrim Festivals." In ancient times every Jew made at least three annual pilgrimages to the Temple in Jerusalem. At this season those who journey to the Temple came with their offerings of first fruits and their gifts from the early wheat harvest.

But of greater religious significance is the observance of the Feast of Weeks as that occasion upon which Israel received the Torah, or the Law, at Mt. Sinai. One of the beautiful legends of the Jews connected with this event tells that when the words of the Ten Commandments were uttered, the sound could be heard in seventy languages. This is symbolic of the universal aspect of Israel's law—Israel's only in that she was the messenger people to make the Law available to all the "seventy nations."

"True to the teachings of Judaism, folk-lore represents the Law as given from lowly Mt. Sinai, symbolic of the humility which accompanies true learning. At the same time the Law was given in the desert to imply that it belonged to all people, just as the desert is the possession of no one group or nation."

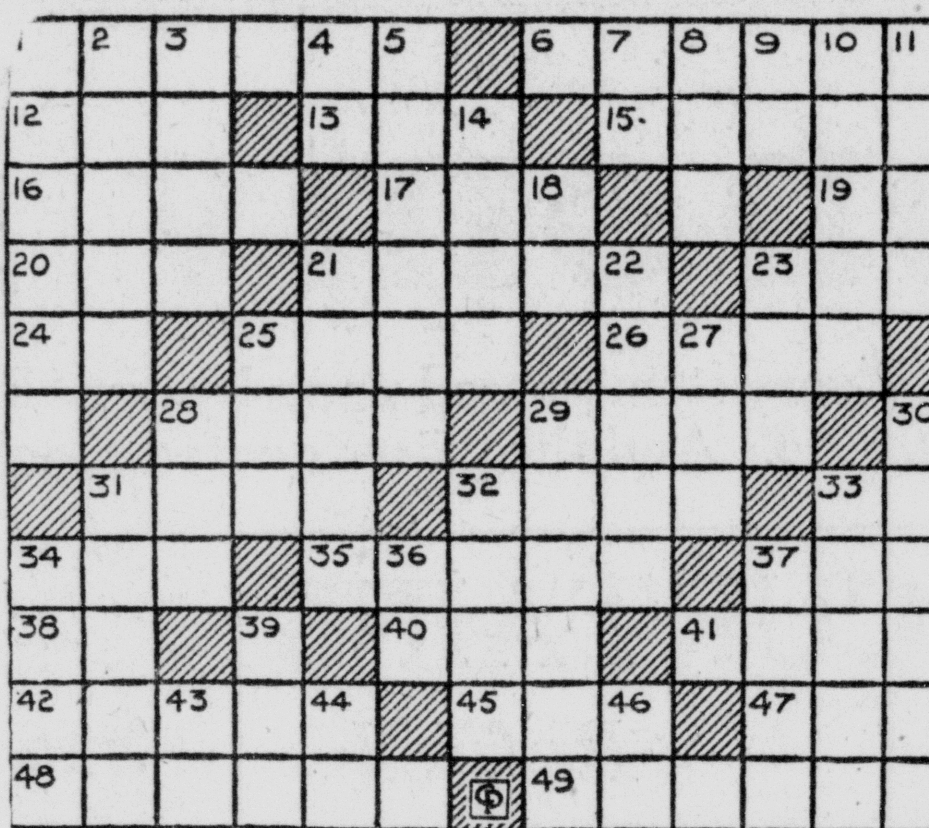

Today a new meaning attaches to the Shabuoth festival. Because the Torah of old was given on this day each boy and girl who becomes confirmed in Judaism is thus confirmed through an impressive ceremony held on this holiday. Just as Israel was prepared by Moses before it could receive the Torah, so each confirmand is trained in the traditions and ideals of Judaism in preparation for this ceremony.

Mindful of Israel's acceptance of the Torah the young on this day take their places in the Synagogue to pronounce their allegiance to Judaism in the ceremony of Confirmation.

In the Shabuoth Festival, the Jew perennially gives thanks to his God through the double aspect of the holiday; first, through the glorification of nature symbolized in the first-fruit offerings of an ancient day, and secondly, in the renewed allegiance to the Torah, a Law valid through the ages.

The Book of Ruth is read in the House of Worship. This charming narrative is most appropriate for

House Passes Garner Program Calling For Expenditure Of $2,300,000,000

SPEEDY ACTION IS PREDICTED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, June 8.—The campaign for jobless relief legislation shifted to the senate today after the house had passed the $2,300,000,000 program of Speaker John N. Garner.
Speedy action was forecast in the senate on the proposal of Senator Wagner (D) of New York to make $300,000,000 immediately available for loans to states and by states to cities where the unemployment problem is acute.Special Loans
Having determined to treat special loans to state through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as emergency legislation, senate administration and Democratic leaders began a series of informal conferences on the remainder of the program.
Under the proposal to divide the $2,300,000,000 program of senate Democrats, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would be empowered to make loans to states on a basis of population.
The corporation would be obliged to make loans upon certification by the governor that the relief funds of the states were exhausted. Repayment of the loans would be over a five-year period beginning in 1935. If the state failed to meet its obligations at that time, the money would be deducted from federal road grants.New Castle Girls

Castlewood

COMMUNITY MEETING

The citizens of Castlewood held their regular monthly meeting at the school building on Monday evening, June 6th. Chairman was John M. Houk.

The first matter of business was a report of the committee who met with Mr. Schler of the Princeton Telephone Co. Mr. Bright, one of the committee reported that the committee found the terms offered by the company were satisfactory and that if enough subscribers could be obtained they would put up a Castlewood line.

Following this report was a vocal duet by the Misses Helen Hill and Helen Houk.

Plans for the Old Home day to be held at the ball field were discussed and it was decided that owing to the depression it would not be advisable to have a picnic, but that Old Timers day would be on Saturday, June 25th, afternoon and evening with ball games between the old time ball players and the present Castlewood team also a game by the ladies. C. Y. Henderson was appointed to arrange for these games.

Harry Miller, George Bright and Mr. Powell was the committee named to have charge of the other sports, while Mr. S. R. Houk is to have charge of the concert to be given in the evening.

The next number on the program was a song by John M. Houk, which he had been taught and sang when a boy six years of age.

Mrs. J. A. Long, president of the Parent-Teachers' Association suggested that all those who wished to join the association would sign their name on a paper which was passed through the audience. Quite a number signed and it is likely that we will have quite a large Parent-Teachers' association during the coming year.

The Castlewood orchestra was presented and played several selections throughout the evening.

SCHOOL CLOSURES

The Castlewood Grade School closed a successful term Friday, June 3rd. The pupils of the seventh and eighth grades with their teacher, Mr. Brown, enjoyed a picnic at Van Gorder's Mill. A number of pupils were neither tardy or absent during the term. They were: Arnold White-man, Edgar Perdue, Reid White.

Weekly Health Talk

"Not so many weeks ago an apparently healthy woman in her early fifties was having dinner at a resort hotel. The man opposite her, whom she knew to be a politician, generously sprinkled salt on his meat and vegetables. Whereupon, with that superiority given to those who are temporarily in the ecstatic throes of a diet fad, she heartily denounced the practice and immediately set forth upon a diatribe upon this most useful dietary element. A little knowledge geared to over-enthusiasm had apparently thrown her completely out of balance so far as salt was concerned," states Doctor Theodore B. Appel, State Secretary of Health.

"The difficulty with the lady's attitude lay in her inability to distinguish between the value of excluding free salt from the diet in the presence of certain diseases as in some forms of kidney affections, and the value of salt to the normal and healthy kidney affections, and the value of salt to the normal healthy individual. Moreover, it is entirely possible that some of her acquaintances, both men and women, may have materially aided her in developing such an attitude by proclaiming with professional emphasis that table salt could be blamed for high blood pressure, arterial hardening and Bright's disease.

"Nor is this intended to be any special criticism of her well-meaning advisors. Certain medical investigators some year ago put forth the theory that salt did offend in these particulars. Never-the-less the fact remains that the normal healthy approximates one-fifth the total body content of salt, or a teaspoon full.

"This, of course, does not mean that one must daily sprinkle twenty grams of salt upon his food. Such a proposition entirely ignores the fact that all foods contain salt, both meat and vegetables. The only point to be stressed is that there appears to be a lack of any reliable scientific facts to justify the average person in becoming unduly repressive regarding the moderate use of salt."

Convention To Speedily Re-nominate Hoover And Curtis

PROHIBITION IS LIVELY PROBLEM

Attitude Of Party On Prohibition May Cause Much FrictionBy GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff
CorrespondentCHICAGO, June 8.—The Republican National Convention assembles in Chicago next Tuesday with the machinery well oiled for the speedy renomination of President Hoover and Vice President Curtis. Apparently there won't be a cylinder missing so far as that part of it is concerned.But a large monkey-wrench in the shape of prohibition is all poised for hurling into the works, and it may knock completely awry the leaders' plans for a short, snappy and harmonious convention.The tentative plank drawn up by the party's "master minds" in Wash-ington over the week-end is not satisfactory to either the wets or the dries, already gathering here in considerable numbers for the battle.
It goes entirely too far to suit the dries, and not far enough to suit the wets.Plank Meets Opposition
After the Usual pledge of law enforcement, and the added condemnation of the saloon, the plank, as drawn, calls for resubmission of the 18th Amendment to the states "to determine whether that amendment shall be retained, repealed or modified."The wets don't like that "retained, repealed or modified." They contend that such phraseology is a straddle on the Moot issue of retention or repeal and would lead to much confusion. Some states, they say, might vote for repeal, others for modification, and in the end there would be no clear-cut settlement of the issue.The dries, of course, don't like any part of it, except the law enforcement pledge and the condemnation of the saloon.At that, the dries like the Washington plank much better than they do the straight-out repeal plank prepared by President Nicholas Murray Butler, which has received the unexpected and whole-hearted approval of John D. Rockefeller.Rockefeller Defection Severe The Rockefeller defection was a severe blow to the dry cause, and made the wets more certain than ever of attaining their objective in the Republican platform.Rockefeller has long been not only for a financial angel for the dries, but for the Republican party as well.
The Rockefeller, father and son, contributed some $350,000 to the Anti-Saloon League to help bring about the 18th Amendment, which the younger Rockefeller now admits was an unsuccessful experiment.Over the same stretch of years, the Rockefeller has contributed probably as much, or more, to the quadrennial republicanism war chests.Their conversion to the wet side of the prohibition question now leaves Henry Ford almost alone among the great captains of industry who still champion prohibition as is. All the rest, most of them regular and heavy contributors to Republican campaign funds, are now lined up against the amendment, and, instead, many of them are so militant about it that they have pledged themselves not to give a dollar to the Republican party this year unless it repudiates the "noble experiment."We trust arrangements have been made to put Calvin Coolidge on the reception committee for that East Indian who is coming over to break seven years of silence.—The Columbus Ohio State Journal.

Queerest Of Queer Beasts Described

Great Anteater Is Peculiar In Appearance, In Structure
And In HabitsThe latest addition to the Hall of American Mammal Habit Groups is an exhibit showing the great anteater amid a reproduction of its natural habitat.The great anteater, which ranges from southern Mexico to southern Brazil, is one of the queerest of the many queer beasts inhabiting the American tropics. It is peculiar in appearance, in structure and in habits.One of its names is ant bear, perhaps on account of its large size and shaggy coat, but it is not even related to bears. It belongs to that rather anomalous group of mammals called edentates, of which the known extinct species are much more numerous than those now living.It is one of three principal kinds of anteaters in South and Central America. The other two are the medium sized tamandua and the much smaller silky anteater, both of which are highly arboreal in habits.Of Grotesque Appearance
The grotesque appearance of the great anteater is largely due to its very long and very narrow head,which is actually six times as long as wide. In other words, it is longer than that of a very large grizzly bear and scarcely wider than that of a jackrabbit.The mouth is reduced to very small size, serving only as an opening through which to protrude its long extensible tongue and draw in its insect food.That such a large animal should be wholly sustained on a diet of ants and termites seems incredible, but this is the case. Although this must be regarded as strong testimony as to the abundance of these insects in the countries to the south of us, it is still stronger as to the efficiency of nature's machine for capturing them in large quantities.

An Expensive Boarder

The great anteater has sometimes been kept alive successfully in zoological gardens, but it is an expensive pet, for its board bill runs to high figures. To supply it with all the insects it needs reaches a cost rivaling that of the tons of hay for the elephant.Teeth are unnecessary for an anteater and they have been entirely eliminated, but the animals are provided with unusually large salivary glands which supply a viscid secretion to assist the effectiveness of the tongue. The long, heavy claws of the front feet are used mainly for tearing open the ant and termite nests, but when necessary can be used very effectively in defense.Respected By Hunters For this reason the anteater is held in very great respect by local hunters and also by such predaceous animals as the jaguar and the puma.which are usually inclined to give it a wide berth. Many a good hunting hound has been literally disempowered by a powerful sweep of these claws.The museum's group was obtained by Colin C. Sanborn, assistant curator of mammals, while a member of the Marshall Field South America Expedition of 1926. The animals are shown in the light forest or semi-savanna of southwestern Brazil, where the physical conditions are those they prefer. They may also occur about the edges of heavy, humid forests, but do not penetrate far into them. The taxidermy is by Julius Priesser and the painted background by Charles A. Corwin.—From the Field Museum News, Chicago.

NEW CASTLE MAN INJURED IN CRASH

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., June 8.— Robert Taylor of New Castle, was injured late Monday in an automo-

H. T. Stephens, who investigated the accident, Taylor was driving his car in the direction of Pittsburgh, when it sideswiped a car enroute in the opposite direction and driven by

Care Urged In Use Of Fumigating Gas

Health Service Says Work Should Go To Those
With ExperienceIn a report published by the United States Public Health Service the use of various fumigating materials, particularly hydrocyanic acid gas is discussed. Hydrocyanic acid is a deadly gas. Persons unfamiliar with its use and effect should not expose themselves to it.This report indicates that trained fumigators can handle the most deadly gases with safety, both to themselves and others. It is, on the other hand, quite true that in the hands of the uninformed or careless, many forms of fumigation are a menace to all concerned.The report emphasizes that fumigating materials, particularly the deadly gases, should be handled only by persons trained in their use and who have the necessary equipment, such as gas masks, to protect themselves as the occasion requires.These gases should never be used without the full knowledge and consent of the local public health or police authorities. Hydrocyanic acid gas should never be used in buildings without combination with a warning gas.Both parties must offer cure-alls.

St. Agatha's Rally To Defeat Magyars

Emmanuel Reformed And St. Luke's Break Even In Double Header

ELLWOOD CITY, June 8.—In one of the grandest rallies seen here the St. Agatha mullball players turned defeat into victory when they staged a rally in the seventh inning to give the strong Magyar Presbyterians their second defeat of the year, by a score of 13-7.

Up to this time the Catholics were trailing by a 6-3 count when they started a batting spree and aided by errors of the opposing team, in no time accumulated 7 additional runs. Inspired by this sudden rally the Catholics continued to pound Greco consistently, from whom they garnered 13 hits which resulted into runs. Phil Blandine the winning pitcher netted 11 hits. The winners had 7 errors and the losers 9. Charley Hanger's homer in the ninth accounted for the other three runs.

The Emmanuel Reformed and the St. Luke's broke even in their double header contests last night. Each won one.

The Catholics victory last night gives the B. V. M.'s a tighter foothold on the title. They have yet to taste defeat.

Braves Take League Lead As Cubs Drop To Brooklyn And Braves Remain Idle

PIRATES DEFEAT PHILLIES 7 TO 4

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 8.—Chicago's Cubs never have been a good road team in recent years and apparently they are going to be under the same handicap this season.

Opening their initial eastern invasion yesterday, the Bruins lost to Brooklyn, 9 to 2, and relinquished the National League lead to the Cardinals, whose game with the Cardinals was washed out by rain.

Brooklyn advanced to fifth place, passing the Reds, who lost to the Giants in the ninth inning, 4 to 3, when Master Melvin Ott smacked his second home run of the game. Lombardi and Grantham hit homers for Cincinnati. Walker and Kolp did the throwing.

Pittsburgh smothered the Phillies, 7 to 4, Shortstop Vaughan getting five of his team's seventeen hits.

Athletics Tamed.
The Athletics were tamed by West Ferrell of Cleveland, 4 to 3, despite two homers by Al Simmons.

Aided by six Detroit errors, the Yankees bounced Detroit, 9 to 2.

A four-run rally in the eleventh gave Washington an 8 to 5 decision over the White Sox.

Home runs by Goose Goslin and Jack Burns accounted for five runs as the Browns downed the Red Sox, 6 to 1, in a fast game that lasted only an hour and 26 minutes.

Wainio Makes Good At Pitt

Francis Wainio, former New Castle High basketball star and track man, has made good as member of the Pitt Freshmen track team, and was seventh in scoring during the past season. Wainio's specialty is pole vaulting. He scored 25 points for the Pitt yearlings. He is being groomed for a varsity berth next year.

Wainio was also a member of the Pitt Freshmen basketball team, and played a forward.

After all, there has been no fundamental change in anything except the definition of "necessities."

Reed And Davis Can't Agree On Necessity Of Cut

Reed Favors Reducing Federal Workers While Davis Is Opposed

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8.—Senators David Reed and James J. Davis of Pennsylvania disagree on the necessity or desirability of federal wage cuts.

On the several record votes had in the Senate on the question of reducing the salaries of Uncle Sam's workers, Davis opposed any decrease and Reed voted for reduction. Likewise, Senator Davis voted to exempt from the proposed reduction salaries below $2,500 and Senator Reed voted against any such exemption. The $2,500 exemption was rejected by a 51 to 25 ballot.

Davis also voted to exempt salaries under $1,000 when this exemption was written into the economy bill. Reed was absent but was paired in favor of the reduction Caraway of Arkansas. The ten per cent cut was approved by a 38 to 27 ballot.

On final question of approving a ten per cent slash in all salaries over $1,000, Senator Davis voted "nay." Senator Reed was absent but was paired in favor of the reduction Caraway of Arkansas. The ten per cent cut was approved by a 38 to 27 ballot.

McGraw's Quitting Puzzles New York

New Yorkers Ask "Why Did McGraw Quit?" No One Has Answer

DAVE BANCROFT FOLLOWS MCGRAW

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 8.—Dave Bancroft's resignation as coach of the New York Giants seems to be the tipoff that something more than illness prompted John McGraw to toss in the managerial sponge.

McGraw, in his valedictory, stated that he had talked the matter of his successor over with President Charles Steinham, and that "we agreed on Bill Terry, who, I think, has every qualification to make a successful manager."

Bancroft seemed to be the logical choice.

But McGraw says he agreed on Terry, which was a strange thing for McGraw to do, unless, of course, he was forced into agreeing.

Which, perhaps, was what happened.

Pressure Exerted
For we find Bancroft resigning the day after McGraw and instead of being sour at his old chieftain, Dave hooked up with John who created a job for him.

Why did McGraw quit?

Did someone in the executive councils make mention of the fact that John was getting entirely too many conks for bossing a ball club from a pair of crutches, a stretcher or the reception room of a medical officer?

Did someone point out, with a bit of sarcasm, that John was getting rather weather-beaten and that the failure of the club, which so many had picked to win the flag, was because John had lost his magic?

Brutally Frank
The office-holding Giants always have been brutally frank with each other. It was testified in court that they sometimes would grow so hotheaded that they would roll each other either and yon—all in good, clean fun, of course.

These are the boys who want results—not alibis. Unless they hear tintrils whizzing merrily, they lose their poise and their calm and all of their naive sweetness. The mere mention of sinus trouble in the regal beeper of anybody named McGraw never can so lace them for the collapse of a team and the more horrible thing—the absence of teaming throngs.

McGraw was often at loggerheads with most of them, even in the glad old days of crowded stands, pennants, world series melons and huge dividends.

Cost Is Less
Therefore, with things grown dismal this year in the matter of receipts and also team standing, and with McGraw drawing down a small fortune in the matter of salary, while unable to give the team his whole attention, it is not difficult to imagine that the somebody offered the thought that John ought to vamoose so that he could have all the time needed to relax and give his sinus a chance to grow better and better.

And, as an economic afterthought, it was deemed best to have a playing manager. The cost is less.

Stocks Stiffen After Reaction

Strength Of Dollar Comes To Aid Of Market
Today

BONDS ALSO SHOW EXCELLENT TONE

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 8.—Strength in the dollar came to the support of the stock market today and steadied it after an early reaction.

Stocks stiffened as the dollar gained strength for the second day, foreshadowing the end of the heavy gold flow from the country. Bonds also showed a good tone though rising ground slightly on profit-taking, sentiment being aided by the announcement that the $100,000,000 banking "pool" had commenced purchases.

The drop in steel operations brought a heavy tone to the steel stocks. Another factor was the prediction that the U. S. Steel unfinished tonnage report on Friday would show another decline.

Rise in oil production brought some selling into the petroleum list but losses were fractional. Utilities were under scattered pressure and rails reactionary.

Commodities continued unsettled with both Wheat and Cotton going lower.

(International News Service)
PARIS, June 8.—"Village for sale, 500,000 francs ($20,000)."
Situating in the Bourgogne—country of rich red wine—the little village of Aubepine, comprising eight farmhouses and out-buildings and several hundred acres, is on the market.

Aubepine has been deserted. One-half of the former population has died and the other half has abandoned the sleepy village for the comforts of a modern apartment with-in car-ride of a movie.

Keepers Injured Removing Toenail Of Roaring Lion

(International News Service)
HOUSTON, Texas, June 8.—Playing doctor to man-eating lions is not an enviable job. Hans Nagel, Hermann Park zookeeper and Tom Baylor his assistant, just grin and do the work.

Caesar, thick-manned sire of 27 cubs born at Hermann Park, had an ingrown nail. Permanent lameness would result if the nail was not extracted, so Nagel and Baylor decided to operate.

Baylor, an ex-cowhand, invaded the cage and roped the lion, but before it could be tied down it broke loose. Another rope was thrown about the tawny neck and Nagel leaped on Caesar's back, away from the dangerous claws. A hand-to-hand battle ensued.

Nagel and Baylor went to the hospital with bruises and scratches but not before the offending ingrown nail was removed.

It was the second time in the park's history that an operation has been performed on a lion. A few years ago Nagel and Baylor extracted an infected tooth from the jaws of a "killer" lion which had been left at the zoo by a circus troop on account of the creature's ferocity.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

There's a lad out on the Moravia street hill district today who is not in the hospital, only because his Guardian Angel rode on him closely yesterday afternoon. That and the fact that a motorist going up the hill had good brakes.

The youngster was playing catch with a pal when a high one went over his head. Without looking he dashed out into the street intent upon recovering his ball. Cars going both directions began blowing their horns and it finally dawned upon the youngster that he really ought to look up to see if any cars were coming. He missed an accident by inches.

The West Pittsburgh road was a little livelier place Tuesday evening than ordinarily. The bonus marchers who left the city in the afternoon camped along the hillside for the night and for a quarter of a mile there were fires lit to keep the men warm.

The dark night, the flare of the bonfires, and the forms that were only half revealed by the flames made a rather spectacular picture but not even those fires could drive out the chill that settled down over the hillside about midnight.

Got a letter today from an anonymous friend which should be answered but you can't address mail that way.

At eighty five years of age one isn't expected to have an overabundance of enthusiasm and pep, but this doesn't seem to apply to the Croton church. They are celebrating their 85th anniversary up there on the hill this week and it's a good bet they didn't have half that zip when they opened the church, back in 1847.

Of course it isn't to be supposed that the same preacher was functioning then who is now, which may have something to do with it.

It seemed as though barnyard golf wasn't going to get out of second gear this summer but gradually the courts are making their appearance. Which probably means that the Second Ward fire house gang will be claiming the championship of everything east of the Mississippi in a couple of weeks.

I still think a city wide horseshoe pitching tournament would be an interesting thing. Hold eliminations in the various corners of the city, appoint a couple of commissioners to arrange the details as to distance, weight of shoes, size of pegs and so on, and then turn the heavers of mule pumps loose.

Certainly a couple of prizes could be secured for the best two man team, the best individual star, the player making the most rings in a game and a few other angles.

We have mushball leagues, baseball leagues, church track meets, why not a city wide horseshoe tournament?

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

There's a lad out on the Moravia street hill district today who is not in the hospital, only because his Guardian Angel rode on him closely yesterday afternoon. That and the fact that a motorist going up the hill had good brakes.

The youngster was playing catch with a pal when a high one went over his head. Without looking he dashed out into the street intent upon recovering his ball. Cars going both directions began blowing their horns and it finally dawned upon the youngster that he really might look up to see if any cars were coming. He missed an accident by inches.

The West Pittsburg road was a little livelier place Tuesday evening than ordinarily. The bonus marchers who left the city in the afternoon camped along the hillside for the night and for a quarter of a mile there were fires lit to keep the men warm.

The dark night, the flare of the bonfires, and the forms that were only half revealed by the flames made a rather spectacular picture but not even those fires could drive out the chill that settled down over the hillside about midnight.

Got a letter today from an anonymous friend which should be answered but you can't address mail that way.

At eighty five years of age one isn't expected to have an overabundance of enthusiasm and pep, but this doesn't seem to apply to the Gorton church. They are celebrating their 85th anniversary up there on the hill this week and it's a good bet they didn't have half that zip when they opened the church, back in 1847.

Of course it isn't to be supposed that the same preacher was functioning then who is now, which may have something to do with it.

It seemed as though barnyard golf wasn't going to get out of second gear this summer but gradually the courts are making their appearance. Which probably means that the Second Ward fire house gang will be claiming the championship of everything east of the Mississippi in a couple of weeks.

I still think a city wide horseshoe pitching tournament would be an interesting thing. Hold eliminations in the various corners of the city, appoint a couple of commissioners to arrange the details as to distance, weight of shoes, size of pegs and so on, and then turn the heavens of mule pumps loose.

Certainly a couple of prizes could be secured for the best two man team, the best individual star, the player making the most rings in a game and a few other angles.

We have basketball leagues, baseball leagues, church track meets, why not a city wide horseshoe tournament?
